Portland Press Herald

VOL. 101—NO. 274 Second Class Postage Paid At Portland, Maine PORTLAND, MAINE, FRIDAY MORNING, MAY 7, 1965 PRICE EIGHT CENTS ★★★★ 40 Pages

Govt. Aides To Confer With Officials Of Burned Out Engineering Firm

By ROBERT L. DODGE
Staff Reporter

SOUTH PORTLAND — Representatives of the federal Bureau of Commercial Fisheries in Washington will come here to confer with officials of the fire-struck Main Electronic Engineering Co.

Rep. Stanley R. Tupper said Thursday in Washington he has been informed bureau officials will arrive here soon to look into the local economy, whose main fish-science building was leveled in a spectacular general alarm fire Wednesday night.

In Portland, Stanley F. Hanson Jr., Tupper's executive assistant, said the Congressman had contacted the Navy Department in Washington about possible temporary use of a building at the South Portland Naval Reserve Training Center by South Portland Engineering Co.

HANSON SAID he had discussed the same possibility with management of the Kittery Naval Shipyard, which is "phasing out" the building as a storage facility.

Hanson said he was told the building, known as No. 5, might possibly be cleared for immediate use, but that any authorization for it must come from Navy officials in Washington.

An official of the Greater Portland Public Development Commission, which owned the destroyed building and most of the other property in the sprawling former World War II shipyard, said South Portland Engineering officials visited the building Navy building Thursday afternoon to determine its adaptability if the Navy no longer needs it.

Lt. Cmdr. David W. Clevely, Commanding officer of the training center, said he believes the building is "potentially available." He said the Kittery shipyard has been transferring supplies from it the past four years, apparently intending to close it.

THE BUILDING has an inside 25-ton crane, a heavy concrete floor, masonry walls, wooden roof structure and new roofing. It has 25,000 square feet of floor space, less than one-third of the 80,000 square feet of the building supplied by Clarence. The others are believed to be one of the largest manufacturing buildings in the state.

Gerald E. Lord chairman of the Public Development Commission, said the commission has no other large structures which are unoccupied and could be utilized by South Portland Engineering. The commission has been interested in obtaining the Navy storage building.

Lt. Carroll H. Swan, engineering officer, and Edmund E. Mosher, offered assistance in this city and the firm "in any way you suggest." He wired City Manager Harold B. Allen and Capt. Edwin E. Kintner, president of the company, that he was checking with the Navy Department and the Interior Department on possible aid.

Another offer of help came from a local source Blue-Portland Inc., whose plant also is in the former shipyard, offered tools to help South Portland Engineering get back into operation.

Capt. Marshall Turnbaugh, USN (ret.), treasurer of the engineering firm, said future plans probably won't be made for at least a week.

MAINE STILL hovered over the ruins of the big barn-like structure on a point jutted by a capsule of radioactive cobalt still in the rubble at one end of the structure.

The cobalt, in a lead container, is used to X-ray steel to test the welds. It is at the south end of the building where the fire started and escaped damage.

It presented no hazard during the fire despite rumors which swept the throngs of spectators at the scene and still presents no danger from radioactivity while it is awaiting removal, probably in several weeks.

An official estimate of the loss in the apparatus, tools and still awaiting Thursday a check of inventory by Capt. Turnbaugh, the loss was estimated up to $1 million.

Destroyed in addition were a research vessel being built for the Bureau of Commercial Fisheries and some big sections of submarines being processed for the Electric Boat Co. Groton-New London.

Work continued Thursday on the submarines in the machine shop and in one building the company's offices. A room in the former structure was fire stopped by sparks during the fire, but the blaze was extinguished.

SOME 150 men were employed in the destroyed building. About 140 others work in other departments. Only a few of the workers were on the fire scene and, eating lunch at the time aboard at the center of the 150-foot long structure.

The building had been leased from the development commission for several years by the A & CA and was exhibit to South Portland Engineering.

In New York City a spokesman for Electric Boat said management of A & A said it was not contacted. It stored in the Groton-New London area.

4 Marines Killed In Fierce Clash In Heart Of Dominican Rebel Zone

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — Gunfire crackled again in Santo Domingo on Thursday despite a cease fire, bringing death to four U.S. Marines and wounding 11 other American servicemen. Two Americans were reported missing captured by Dominican rebels.

Three Marines were killed in pitched battle a mile from the rebel-held area of the capital's rebel territory five violation, then said they Dominican Republic. Another was believed the story of the wounded in the follow-up of the first clash, one of whom died later.turn.

Eleven Marines were wounded in the second clash, one of whom died later.turn.

The U.S. command said the four Marines were killed in separate incidents snipers fire on the Americans. Another was wounded two U.S. paratroopers of the U.S. Peace Corps stationed in the Dominican Republic.

A Dominican Navy helicopter with two Americans aboard was fired on by rebels but escaped to the sea. The helicopter was not damaged.

The rebels released the two

Held As Prisoners

Two U.S. Marines taken prisoner by Santo Domingo rebels Thursday after a gun fight that saw four Marines killed and three others seriously wounded, are served coffee in rebel headquarters by a girl-fighter prior to their release. The Marines are Pvt. Darrell J. Southwell, 21, of Mason, Mich., left, and Cpl. Robert Garcia, 23, of New York. (AP Wirephoto)

OAS Dominican Military Role Remains Obscure

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Organization of American States (OAS) has created a new peacekeeping machinery—combined, itself early Thursday night in a move to end the Dominican Republic but the terms and wording of the historic steps remained obscure.

The 21-nation conference debated what the OAS proposed for dispatch to join U.S. forces in an effort to reconcile rebels and bar a Communist power seizure in the revolution-torn Caribbean nation.

The step provoked dissatisfaction from Communist voices in the United Nations who argued that only that organization has the authority to arbitrate such a role. And it sparked leftist demonstrations in Latin America and by several Latin-American countries.

The OAS has no power over the United States in its Dominican role. Nor does it ask others nations more closely to the anti-Communist cause and other voices on the floor out of the conference. But it does assert that the United States and supporters of the resolution originally offered by the United States.

The rebel spokesman said the two would be turned over to the OAS spokesman in Border Area. Col. Francisco Caamano Deno, the rebel leader.

"We want to demonstrate to the world that the OAS is not used to have respect for the rights of the people and that we are not a part of India—we will act there immediately! We don't want to see lives lost in this fighting, neither Americans nor Dominicans."

Artist said the U.S. patrol penetrated almost a mile beyond the U.S. zone set forth in the cease-fire agreement.

WILL RESPECT PACT

"It is a violation," he added, "but we will continue to respect the cease-fire."

Artist said the Marines were taken to the rebel headquarters. But Garcia, wounded, insisted he be left behind. He was carried to the rebel headquarters.

"We urge the Americans to respect the cease-fire," Artist said. "We do not want to embroil ourselves in international anti-North American feeling."

Artist, who is a Dominican and speaks Spanish and South-American English, said the rebel spectators where they were. Garcia was left behind.

While artist stormed into the tiny living and dining room of the Dominican combined the two Marines in a rear room. Artist said he understood from him that they had made a

Continued on Page 32; 5th. Col.

MMC's Mental Health Clinic Draws Praise

NEW YORK — The American Psychiatric Association said Thursday that the state of Maine Medical Center in Portland, Maine, is preventing hospitalization of the mentally ill could well be noted as a model for other Maine cities.

Dr. Alfred Auerback of San Francisco, Calif., cited the performance of the MMC Mental Health Clinic in introducing a paper on the clinic's director, at the annual convention of the association.

Dr. Levy said that only seven patients of the 500 treated during a 14-month period in the clinic required hospitalization. He said all 500 were psychologically disturbed and most, or all, of them normally would have been committed to hospitals.

Dr. Levy said the sole purpose of the clinic is "to keep the severely mentally ill person in the community, in his home, and to return the patient to as close to what he or she normally was."

He noted that Portland has no inmediate psychiatric facilities, but added then Maine Medical Center should be able to provide short-term hospitalization for psychiatric patients within the next four years.

He declared that until recently the attitude of Maine people particularly those in the Greater Portland area, was extremely negative and psychiatric treatment could best be described as "exathetic."

Senate Passes LBJ $700 Million Request

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's $700 million request for the Vietnam war was finally cleared through the Senate Thursday and sent over to the House with only minor changes.

The bill was passed in the Senate by a vote of 88 to 3 after it had been approved by the Democratic and Republican leaders on Thursday and also by the opposition, and the bill gives Johnson far more than a $700-million appropriation. Morse commended it as a tribute to Presidential authority to wage undeclared war, and he said the senate will be asked for the senate will be asked for thousands more dollars later.

Senator Morse, a critic who has opposed the Vietnam war, Morse said, "as a matter of principle" will vote against it for his policies in Viet Nam not for Congress.

Scoffing at senators who [illegible]

Continued on Page 32; 6th. Col.

3 More Marine Battalions Pour Ashore In Viet Nam

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Three more U.S. Marine battalions began pouring ashore on a South Vietnamese beach 340 miles northeast of here Friday to secure an area on which a new combat air base is to be built.

The Marines came ashore in landing craft at a remote beach area at Quang Tin Province, 60 miles the Marines. It was reported south of Da Nang.

Approximately 3,500 U.S. Navy Seabees will be landed the next two days to construct a major air field at Chu Lai.

Vietnamese authorities had battalions of their own troops in the area and a contingent of Australian soldiers.

A U.S. official commissioner [illegible] in Saigon said: "We are further step in the program of [illegible] Vietnam's northern provinces of Viet Nam is considered [illegible] militaries/allies of the [illegible] preach in this province and are gratified by all steps in this direction."

Opposition within the CIA was led by Senator Thomas Dodd, Conn. Peru and Ecuador and three nations cast the five votes [illegible] one votes on the final roll call. Chile, Peru and Ecuador also voted against the resolution.

Dawn Chorus Is Fine Way To Start Each Day

By C. HASTY THOMPSON
Staff Reporter

Sleepyheads who wake up just in time to grab a cup of coffee and head for the job are likely to be unaware of one of nature's most stirring shows — the dawn chorus of birds.

But it is the ideal entertainment to give to the enthusiastic music of the dawn chorus, writes the new day.

It is the cascade of stirring which pours from the throats of the thrushes, warblers, orioles, finches, sparrows, and many other species as the first light breaks from the eastern sky.

Its volume is the combined noise of the crows, jays, blackbirds and starlings which contribute to the symphony.

IN MAINE the dawn chorus is best in May and June and diminishes gradually through July. These are months of heavy reproduction.

It is best to be awake early to hear it. In this area now it begins about 5:15 a.m. Daylight Saving Time, and on clear mornings its peak of intensity may last only about 15 minutes.

It lasts longer on cool, cloudy mornings, according to Dr. Olin Sewall Pettingill Jr. of Wayne, a Belgrade native who is director of Cornell University's Laboratory of Ornithology. Dr. Pettingill is a former Maine resident.

Audubon Photo

The Flicker Greets The Dawn

Besides as the sun rises above the horizon there is plenty of bird music at 7 or 8 a.m. but by that time most of the birds are busy searching for food, building nests or feeding young.

The nearest is best to arrive for Maine birds. Most species in the landscape provides [illegible] to the Arctic or to the Except for the big woods the birds [illegible] of the dawn chorus of trees, patches of shrubbery, fields, [illegible] and [illegible] and brooks and [illegible] [illegible]-cows.

EXPERTS SAY the dawn chorus is best in the Maine and South American than in any other part of the world.

That is because evolution [illegible] in these areas which favored the Western Hemisphere with numerous species of songbirds with [illegible] voices.

Dawn choruses in Europe and Asia are not as rich and varied as those in the Americas. For a few species of song birds [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] to [illegible].

He adds that although a few more species breed in the northern part of this country than in the southern area, the difference in the volume of song is not noticeable.

For anyone aware of the din of artificial noises which daily [illegible] the ears of modern civilization, the dawn chorus is a good way to start the day.

Prayer For Today

O God, Father of all men, help me this day to love and serve my fellowmen. Help me first how to be a friend to myself, that I may learn to discern between enemy and stranger. If I have earned the enmity, forgive and change me. If, in spite of all, I am hated, teach and empower me to return good for evil and thus be a channel for divine and reconciling love. I through Christ, our Lord and Redeemer. Amen.—Edward A. Ziegler, Minister, First Congregational Church of the Brethren.

Animal Refuge League Plans Tag Night, Day

Animal Refuge League workers will sponsor a tag night and tag day next week, it was announced today by Mrs. Kind Ty Animals Mrs. Kind Ty Animals Mrs. Kind Ty Animals Master Memorial Refuge for Animals.

Young people with tags will be at the Greater Portland shopping centers from 7 to 9 p.m. Monday and from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday. Animals [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]